Watch over them day and night.

Protect them everywhere and always. Amen.*

St Junípero Serra, July 1

Fr Junípero Serra (1713-1784) served as a missionary first in Mexico and then in California, a territory recently claimed by Spain. Over a period of fifteen years, he founded nine missions there. He is the patron saint of California.

By 1784, the year of his death, 6,736 Indian baptisms had been recorded at the missions; over 4,500 were living in them. Though Fr Serra was protective of his converts, he has been criticized by some for a "paternalistic" attitude toward them. Sadly, many of his statues have been victims of the vandalism that, in an effort to erase history, has shamefully destroyed monuments throughout the US.

Pope Francis canonized Junípero Serra on September 23, 2015. USCCB

What wondrous love is this...

Among the immeasurable riches of the Catholic faith are images that speak to us at a deep level, without words.

The crucifix is a stark reminder of the pain and suffering Jesus endured for our sake. Contemplating our Savior on the cross, we see the reality of His incomprehensible love for us despite our sinfulness.

The Sacred Heart of Jesus, encircled with thorns and pierced by the centurion's sword, calls to mind His sacrifice; His Heart is burning with His mercy and love for us.

The Divine Mercy image with the red and white beams of light representing the blood and water that flowed from His side and also the sacraments of Baptism and Eucharist is a less graphic, gentler image of God's love and mercy.
