Our Lady of Coromoto, pray for Venezuela

As of 2 July, the toll from the June 24 twin earthquakes in Venezuela was at least 2,295 deaths and over 11,000 injured. The widespread destruction of homes and property has driven thousands of people to sleeping on the street or, if they are more fortunate, they may find shelter in public buildings and churches that are still standing.

Financial aid and rescue teams are being sent to Venezuela from all over the world. Even dogs trained to locate survivors have joined the effort. The US government is funneling funding through NGO partners including Catholic Relief Services. Yahoo; EWTN

Mexico's famous Topos Azteca rescue brigade, formed after the 1985 earthquake in Mexico City, is at the epicenter, employing their expertise helping to locate people trapped under the debris. LA Times

A few happy stories have emerged from the disaster: A mother and her 18-day-old baby were pulled from the rubble after a being trapped for 32 hours: "As long as he was alive, I was going to be alive..." New York Post

How to help: Catholic Relief Services is one of many charitable organizations providing help in Venezuela. Catholic Relief Services

Dear Mr. Jefferson:

A Letter From the Smallest American

"Two hundred and fifty years ago, you wrote, 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal...' Did you know that someday people would debate whether someone like me—the smallest American—is included in this promise?... If all men are created equal, then why do so many deny that someone like me should be included in the promise of this principle?..."

I ask you: What happens to a society when one person's freedom is believed to outweigh another person's right to exist? I am not my mother's body. I am my own body. I have my own heartbeat, my own gifts, my own life, my own future...

I cannot be reduced to a choice made for convenience. My worth cannot be measured by whether I am wanted or not."
